About David Lee

Often referred to as the man of many Visions, David Lee, is the quirky, visionary, inspirational creator of the absurdly insightful collection of amusing messages, True Fortunes.

David Lee's colorful career spans over six decades and includes an array of expertise including designer, marriage and family therapist, hypnotherapist, inventor, marketing executive, mechanical engineer and entrepreneur.

David' background includes supervising the mechanical design of the rocket engine for Lunar Excursion Module that landed the first astronauts on the moon. Additionally, he designed a hermetically-sealed explosive release mechanism for satellites.

His contributions are not limited to the United States. David designed the hermetically-sealed damper for London's Millennium Bridge with Infinite life that was used to control pedestrian-induced vibrations on the bridge. Before the installation of the dampers the bridge swayed so much that It could not be used.

Not satisfied with using his talents only for lunar travel and safe bridges, David invented a system for supporting the inertial systems of ships to protect them from depth charge-induced shock, thus allowing them to retain very precise alignment.

His talents didn't go unnoticed with his design of the talking mechanism for the Chatty Cathy Doll, a favorite for children from 1959 – 1965. Chatty Cathy was the first-ever talking doll.

Born and raised in Chicago, Illinois, David migrated to California to attend California Institute of Technology (Cal Tech) in Pasadena in 1948, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering.

During that time, he was married and subsequently had three children. Years later, he would continue his education at the University of Southern California (USC) from which he obtained a Ph. D in mechanical engineering, and much later a Master's degree in Counselor Education. While at USC, he was a member of the Alpha Sigma Lambda Scholarship Society.

In 1970 David Lee became a Marriage and Family Therapist receiving his degree from USC. He opened a private practice in Beverly Hills, counseling individuals and couples.

Feeling the urge to go deeper into his work with private clients, David became a licensed hypnotherapist in order to use hypnotherapy in his practice. This led to him create and produce a series of "Guided Relaxation" audio tapes which his audiences everywhere affectionately called True Fortunes. For an entertaining, informative, brilliant and creative featured expert, David Lee is the one to call.
